Legend of the Flying, Dutctiman

The fate of the romantic Flying Dutchman of legend was to sail throughout eternity in search of a woman who would redeem him through her love from the curse of eternal wandering. His history is a sad, overwhelming sweep of eternity and death.
The fate of today's Flying Dutchmen, the class of 1954 of Lebanon Valley College, is to live in a whirling world of constant change. Their history is a complex pattern of everything that has happened to them since September 11, 1950 when they first viewed Lebanon Valley as their college. Each faculty member, dorm session, date, classmate, test, football or basketball game, play or concert, as well as each poignant period of homesickness, confusion, or bewilderment has subtly effected a change in each student.
This Quittapahilla is our record of those forces of change; it is our attempt to put into concrete form the wondrous abstracts of living and learning, of thinking and doing, of growing and changing that have been our four years at Lebanon Valley College.

QUITTA

QUITT APAHILLA

Quittapahilla! Lovely Indian name! Quittapahilla-rippling on the tongue An incantation, or a song once sung
By dancing maidens in the mellow flame
Of moontime. Hilla! Hilla! Warriors came
To answer, Hilla! Quittapahilla!-flung
Into the dusk while yet the stars were youngAnd challenge Death for some avenging shame. And now she lives the spirit of the stream

Weeping amid its willows when they sigh,
Or calling through the lowlands green with corn:
Quittapahilla!-shadow of a dream
In forests olden; and the wailing cry
Crosses the meadows like a silver horn.

)edication

To the class of 1954, this Quittapahilla is its symbol of four years at Lebanon Valley College. To dedicate it to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aftosmes is a sincere reflection of the good-will toward them visible on the faces of all who come in contact with "Hot Dog" and Mary.

Therefore, Frank and Mary,
. . . for your ever new interest in us,
. . . for your fervent support of us,
. . . for your sincere pride in us,
. . . for your constant friendship to us,
we, the Class of 1954, proudly and lovingly dedicate our book to you, the best loved and most vividly remembered friends in our four years at Lebanon Valley.

One of the most up-and-coming organizations on Lebanon Valley's campus this year is the Student-Faculty Council. The organization, which for some years had been lost in obscurity and veiled under the maze of a rather complicated system of student government, is now coming into its own, realizing the tremendous potential power and responsibility which it does possess.

The council is composed of the president or appointed representative of each organization on campus plus three faculty advisers-Dean William Hays, Dean Constance Dent, and Professor Luella Frank. These members strive to create better relations among organizations and between students and faculty through discussion of problems which pertain to the entire student body. The organization may also be thought of as a co-ordinator of the duties of the other four governing bodies: the Resident Women's Student Goverument Association, the Men's Senate, the Women's Commuter Council, and the Men's Day Student Congress.

Some very specific duties of the Student-Faculty Council are to approve new or revised constitutions of organizations, to make up the social calendar, and to appropriate money to groups which sponsor non-profit activities. The council meets twice a month under the chairmanship of President Samuel Yeagley.

Sophomores

The Class of 1955-the winners of two annual tug-of-wars-busied themselves early in the year with indoctrinating the Frosh-teaching them the cheers, acquainting them with the surrounding countryside, and showing them various odd jobs to do on campus. In April, they joined with the Frosh to sponsor Underclassmen Week-end which included the presentation of the play Joan of Lorraine and the informal dance, "In a Spring Garden."

At the end of the year they impatiently and eagerly await the summer miracle after which they return to campus as upperclassmen, who will be concerned with their yearbook, the 1955 Quittapahilla, and their Junior Prom.

This year's Frosh-the Seniors of 1956-good-naturedly wore their dinks and conformed to other upper-classmen notions of proper Frosh behavior, such as always carrying their " $L$ " Books and matches and leading cheering teams in front of North Hall before meals. On Homecoming Day they fought valiantly but bowed to the weight and height of the Soph team.
During the year, they lost both their initial shyness and brashness, took the routine of classes and studies-including the traditional autobiography and term paper, and continued to break forth sudden spurts of fun-making and havoc-raising-much to the delight of the campus. On April 23 and 24, they joined with the Sophs for "Underclassmen Week-end" which centered about the presentation of Joan of Lorraine and the informal dance, "In a Spring Garden."

This is an organization composed entirely of female instrumentalists of the Conservatory and College. This year the Girls' Band did not participate in any of the half-time entertainment during the football season because of the lack of proper uniforms. In order to raise money for the uniforms, the girls presented varied vocal programs as well as a program of band numbers and specialties on May 15, 1953 in Engle Hall.

These instrumental ensembles give their members opportunity to explore music literature not performed by the larger orchestra and band groups. In addition, playing in such a group develops independence, and self-assurance as well as a cooperative team spirit. These groups were called on throughout the year to perform in Chapel, at banquets, teas, and other social functions. The Brass Ensemble was a featured part of the Glee Club Tour.

Phi Lambda Sigma, or Philo, is the oldest society on campus. Its motto is "All for one and one for all," its colors gold and royal blue. With their new constitution, the Phi Sigmas are observing their most successful year since their reorganization four years ago.

On April 11, at the Allenberry near Boiling Springs, the Phi Sigmas, along with their sister society Kappa Lambda Nu, held their annual Spring dinner-dance at which Mr. and Mrs. Ehrhart, Dr. and Mrs. McKlveen, and Mrs. Bender were guests. Charles Blaich, president of Phi Lambda, was toastmaster. Other events in the Phi Lambda schedule were the Spring picnic, the stag-night, and the formal installation of next year's officers.

Not satisfied to rest on past achievements, Phi Lambda Sigma is planning a program for next year which will promote even more successful activity than before.

Kappa Lambda Nu, affectionately known as Clio, is the oldest of the women's societies on campus. Its motto is "Virtue et Fide;" its colors, gold and white; its patron goddess, Minerva, goddess of wisdom; and its symbols, the owl of wisdom and the olive branch of unchallenged victory.
The most outstanding project which the Society undertook was the production, along with its brother society, Phi Lambda Sigma, of T. S. Eliot's masterful play Murder In The Cathedral, a dramatization of the martyrdom of Thomas a Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury. The play was the first of its type to be attempted on the Lebanon Valley stage, but was a decided success and earned many compliments for its cast and director, Mr. T. D. Keller.

Rush Week activities included a tea and fashion show at Mrs. Bender's, the informal initiation based on "By the Sea in the ' 90 's', and the formal initiation on January 17.

Nelta Nambda Sigma

"The purposes of Delta Lambda Sigma are to promote a greater degree of friendship, to train in student leadership, to further college loyalty, to promote better social relations among the students." Its name was taken from the oracle of Delphi and its colors are purple and white. The triangle is the Society's insignia; its popular name, Delphian.

This year the annual Rush Week was in January. Each Delphian member was given a Freshman "little sister," to whom she gave daily remembrances and whom she escorted to Rush Week activities. The initiates dressed for one day as "Flying Dutch Girls," and on January 17 were formally initiated into the Society.

The highlight of the Society's social year was the annual Kalo-Delphian Week-end of March 6 and 7 which featured the presentation of Fay Kanin's Good-bye, My Fancy, and the dinner-dance at the Berkshire Hotel in Reading. Other activities included a dance with Kalo in October, a bake sale, and a book sale of dime novels.

This award to an outstanding athlete is based on sportsmanship, leadership, cooperation, and school spirit. The committee, composed of the President of the Athletic Council, the director of Athletics, the head coaches of each varsity sport, and the president of the Knights of the Valley, presented the award to Leon Miller at the All Sport's Banquet on May 11.

The other principal activity of the Knights was their annual dinner dance held on March 21 at the Hotel Yorktown in York.

Wig and Buckle Club

The Wig and Buckle Club, the dramatic club on campus, attempts, mainly through actual productions, to give its members experience in all phases of the thespian art-acting, directing, stage design, and lighting.

Joan of Lorraine, the moving portrayal of the life of Joan of Arc prepared for the theater by Maxwell Anderson, was produced on Lebanon Valley's stage on April 23 as the climax of a year's activities. The play was directed hy Dr. Charles Sloca, the club's advisor, and starred Joan Rosenberry.

William Saroyan's The Beautiful People was the club's major Fall production. In addition, the two one-act plays If Women Worked As Men Do and If Men Played Cards As Women Do were presented on Homecoming Day. Both of these plays were student acted, student directed, and student produced.

The 1954 Quittapahilla has been an experiment-an experiment for the class in the use of offset printing, for the printer in the publication of yearbooks, for the photographer in the use of large numbers of informal snaps. It is a product of the class, a heady mixture of captions, lost pictures, unknown persons, hastily typed write-ups, planned lay-outs, and the much needed assistance of the business men and friends who helped to publish the book.

Wonder if this thing's set right?

Pity the poor photographerhe's got to develop them.

Association

"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." II Timothy 1:7

One of the most active and fruitful organizations on Lebanon Valley College campus is the Student Christian Association. Each Wednesday night this group gathers for a Fellowship program in Philo Hall. It is here that much of tomorrow's Christian leadership is being developed and that young men and women learn to know God in a deep and more loving way.

With the advice of Dr. Sparks and Professor Ehrhart, Glenn Dietrich has guided the group through the year. To begin the year, the group convened at the annual Fall Retreat at Mount Gretna and, after planning the year's program, returned to campus to welcome the incoming Frosh and help them get settled in their rooms. During Freshmen Week they sponsored outdoor devotions and a hymn sing. During the Christmas season the Student Christian Association Chorus, directed by Julia Ulrich, presented a cantata in Engle Hall. On the eve of vacation the group hired two wagons in which the entire student body rode through the town singing carols at the homes of professors and friends.

International Week-end with representatives from China, Colombia, Egypt, Germany, Japan, Korea, Latvia, Panama, Switzerland, and Syria, was held on March 21 and 22. Earlier in the month, Religious Emphasis Week, lead by Dr. E. Fay Campbell, the Reverend Gayraud S. Wilmore, and other guest ministers, brought three days of chapel services, seminars, banquets to campus which was climaxed on the final day by the presentation of the play The Lamb in the Window, directed by Dr. Gilbert McKlveen.

In the pre-election meetings members analyzed current problems and gained training in the use of Robert's Rules. In the second term, the club began active preparation for the Inter-Collegiate Conference on Government and sent full delegations, headed by student-chairman Charles Reed, to both the Regional meeting on March 14 at Dickinson and the State Convention in Harrisburg from April 29 to May 2.

On January 15, on the eve of the exam period, the club held its annual "Blue Book Social," arranged by social chairman, Betty Criswell, at the Green Terrace with Dr. Miller as guest speaker.

"The purpose of Pi Gamma Mu is to improve scholarship in the social studies and to achieve synthesis therein; to inspire social service to humanity by an intelligent approach to the solution of social problems; to engender sympathy towards others with different opinions and institutions by a better mutual understanding; and to supplement and to support, but not to supplant, existing social science organizations by promoting sociability and attendance at meetings."

The high point of the society's activities was the field trip to New York City on March 30 and 31. The first afternoon was spent at the United Nations where they toured the building and attended a session of the General Assembly. The next morning the group visited the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the Stock Exchange, the exhibit of monies of the world at the Chase National Bank. The trip was concluded with visits to the Wall Street Journal and to Lever House, the modern house of glass and steel.

The Green Blotter Club, the honorary writing club, meets monthly at the home of Dr. Struble. Its meetings are delightfully informal sessions in which the members and faculty advisor discuss and criticize one another's work or that of newcomers, and frequently branch off onto such subjects as art, folk legends, travel, and history.
Each Spring, the group publishes a Spring Supplement containing a selected piece from the work of each member. Senior members of the club are Howard Ancell and Allen Koppenhaver; junior members, Janice Walker, Ted Stagg, and Lucie Portier; sophomore members, Adora Rabiger, Dorothy Roudabush, Frances Thomas, and Roger Dundore.

The French Club, an organization which had been dropped from Lebanon Valley's campus several years ago, was revived under the direction of Dr. George Struble and Mrs. Luella Frank.

Outstanding among the meetings of the year were the visit by the native Frenchman who was traveling in the United States, the discussion by Dr. Struble and Mrs. Frank of their studies at LaValle University in Quebec, and Mary Lou Young's description of her trip to Europe.

Better known by its title the Math-Physics Club, the Einstein Club has attempted to foster and maintain interest in mathematics and physics outside the classroom.
A film on electronics, entertainment in and on mathematics, lectures abundantly interspersed with cokes, and-just for variety-a philosophical discussion or two have comprised some of the activities of the year. Although the field trip did not materialize during the year, members from the previous year remember the excursion to the Bureau of Standards in Washington, D. With the objective of bringing together on the Lebanon Valley campus the students from New Jersey in order to form an Alumni Association and to add to the social, academic, and athletic life of New Jersey students on campus, a small group of students in 1951 took the initiative in discussing the possibility of forming a New Jersey Club. The club's organization meeting was held at the Meadowbrook in New Jersey during Christmas vacation in 1951; a constitution was drafted later that year.

At the Club's Christmas social at La Pree's in Roselle on December 27, 1952 which was attended by representatives of the classes of 1929 to 1956, the New Jersey Alumni Association was formed. Joseph Kania of Elizabeth, '46, was elected president; Warren Sechrist of Butler, '40, vice-president; and Adele Begg of North Arlington, '52, secretary-treasurer. In May the club sponsored a New Jersey Club Week-end which included a hayride and dance.

Under the guidance of Dr. Sparks, these students quietly and without fanfare do much to spread the Good News of Life through Jesus Christ. On campus these hard-workers distributed The Upper Room to all students.

During the year, deputation groups composed of a speaker, a soloist, an accompanist, and a song-leader have served in various churches. These student conducted services were given at Coatesville Grace E.U.B., Lebanon Bethany E.U.B., Baltimore (Md.) Third E.U.B., and Harrisburg Sixth Street E.U.B. Larger groups have visited the County Home and the Crippled Children's Hospital at Elizabethtown.

Nearby seminaries entertained the male members of the group on two visits and an inspection trip of the Hershey E.U.B. Church showed the working of a large church establishment to the group.

By spreading good cheer and spiritual gifts, these students who are the future ministers, missionaries, and lay workers of the church live their motto: "Christianity is our business."

Tuture  Geachers of America

The George D. Gossard Chapter of the Future Teachers of America widened its horizons until its name was nationally known when its president, William Shoppell, served as state and national F.T.A. president during the $1952-53$ term. Bill was elected to the state office at the state convention at East Stroudsburg in April, 1952, and to the national presidency at Ypsilanti, Michigan during the summer.

Several hundred college and high school students from all over Pennsylvania were entertained at Lebanon Valley by the chapter at the annual F.T.A. State Convention, April 17 and 18. The program included a keynote address by Dr. Gilbert McKlveen; a banquet at which Reverend Richwine, pastor of the Annville Lutheran Church, was the speaker; and a dance Saturday evening.
F.T.A. Day, February 3, was given over entirely to F.T.A. activities. During the Chapel Hour, Dr. Don McGary of the Education Department of Penn State presented the morning address on the subject of the need for world-mindedness in our day. The day was climaxed by an evening's entertainment which included the presentation of the one-act play The Old Lady Shows Her Medals, by James H. Barrie.

Another outstanding meeting was that in which Mr. Gaskins, principal of Lebanon High School, and three of his teachers "talked shop" before F.T.A. members. In March, Mr. Walter Kearney, state director of television and director of Penn State's placement bureau, addressed a joint meeting of the F.T.A. and the Annville High School Parents-Teachers Association.

Led by its executive council, the "L" Club's forty-three members finished an active and successful year. One of the major acts of the club was to relinquish to the Administration the presentation of all athletic awards. This year, however, desiring to commemorate their last presentation of awards, the club chose a new style jacket-blue suede with leather collars and a white monogram.

The social activity spotlighting the school year for the club was the annual "L" Club Homecoming Day Dance which was based on the theme Give your girl an " $L$ " and which featured as favors small chenile "L's". The year ended with the annual "All Sports" Banquet where awards in recognition of their activity and perennial membership in the "L" Club were presented to participating athletes.

Mr. Marquette, R. Furda, M. Gluntz, H. Landa, L. Sorrentino, H. Finkelstein, D. Grider, B. Blakeney, L. Miller, W. Vought, J. Handley, H. Kozier.

Fielding the greatest basketball team over to don the Blue and White, Lebanon Valley's speedy hoopsters swept the Middle Atlantic Conference Championship with a season record of 19 wins and 1 loss. To climax this, the Flying Dutchmen were selected to represent the Conference in the nationwide NCAA tournament where they won the acclaim of all who heard of them even though they were eliminated in the first round at Raleigh, North Carolina.

Primarily the team consisted of seven men: co-captains Richie Furda and Leon Miller; Bill Vought, Howard Landa, Herb Finkelstein, Lou Sorrentino and Don Grider. Rounding out the varsity were Howard Kozier, Bob Blakeney, Marty Gluntz, and Jim Handley. Coaching this mighty five was George "Rinso" Marquette in his first year as a college coach.

Stressing speed and driving ability in their colorful play, the Dutchmen started their season with a $69-58$ win over Dickinson. Previous to this they had administered an $88-56$ pre-season beating to Mount Saint Marys. Then after a $78-67$ win over Upsala, the Dutchmen met Juniata and, as the hoops burned, racked up a 116-75 victory over the lndians, creating a new scoring record. Their final victory of 1952 was against West Chester-97-80

Following Christmas vacation, Lebanon Valley continued its torrid pace as they trounced Penn Military 102-87. In these three games, the Dutchmen scored 375 points for an average of 105 points a gane. Albright, however, found a way to cool the Valley and kept control of the ball throughout most of the final quarter, thereby limiting the score to 74-49. This action, however, merely proved to the audience that the Dutchmen possess keen senses of humour, for the team posed for pictures, took short rests, and talked to fans during the frozen period.

The Dutchmen breezed through their next three games beating Scranton 80-65, Elizabethtown 70-58, and Scranton again 91-76. Lebanon Valley then met its first serious threat of the year at Gettysburg. It was a close, hard-fought game until Valley finally downed the Bullets 9484 .

Next after an easy $78-61$ win over Moravian, the Dutchmen faced what was then considered their toughest game as they played host to the powerful Muhlenberg (Mules. This team, which had beaten Temple and other major colleges, was outfought and out-hustled by the Flying Dutchmen as proven by the $86-77$ score.

Up until this time the Valley had won twelve games straight. The inevitable defeat came, and was given by the arch-rival Albright. In a heartbreaker at Reading in which the Dutchmen could no nothing right and the Lions nothing, wrong, the twelve game streak was broken by a score of $82-74$. Not daunted by their loss, the Valley hoopsters snapped back to down Elizabethtown for the first time in years, 65.56. This was followed by a smashing $84-48$ win over Moravian. Immediately after this word was received that the Dutchmen were being considered for the NCAA tournament.

Franklin and Marshall, who was also in the running for the NCAA bid, was Valley's next rival. The winner of the game was almost certain of the invitation. In the thrilling game F.&M., shot out at halftime to a $42-34$ lead which the Flying Dutchmen overcame by using an all court press. In the last quarter, Lebanon Valley completely outclassed the tired Diplomats to win 80-66-and clinched the invitation.

The news of the NCAA invitation was made official on February 27-and Valley was scheduled to play Fordham in Philadelphia on March 10. In the interim, the Dutchmen beat Lincoln 102.79, Juniata 83-81, and Dickinson 65-54.

On March 10 an overconfident Fordham Ram team found the depleted Lebanon Valley team too much for them. Playing without the aid of Richie Furda and Don Grider who were declared ineligible, the scrappy Dutchmen played Fordham on even terms in the first half $32-32$, but ran away from them in the second half to win $80-67$ in one of the greatest upsets of NCAA competition.

The cry of "On to Raleigh," was heard on campus and over half the student-body converged on the town as Lebanon Valley and its Flying Dutchmen set out to prove that they could make a showing against powerful "big-time" teams. They gave "tall" Louisiana State University a serious scare for three periods before bowing to the Tigers' superior height 89-76. The next night, the Tired Dutchmen dropped the consolation game to Wake Forest Deacons 91-71.

Thus ended Lebanon Valley's finest season, a campaign which saw a small, unheralded school come out of the Lebanon Valley of Pennsylvania to battle court titans in a national tournament. The Dutchmen captured the hearts of the fans everywhere they went, for the "iron midgets" as they were termed and their young, enthusiastic, coach captured the imagination of the nation.

Lebanon Valley's 1952 football team, though its ranks were somewhat depleted by the loss of graduated seniors, still had a successful season, winning four games and dropping three. Under the new head football coach, Dick Fox, the Flying Dutchmen swept through their first three games before losing.

The first game was played on Homecoming Day against a strong Penn Military College team which had evolved a new type of formation called the "flying saucer." The "flying saucer", however, was grounded by the Flying Dutchmen. Spearheading the Valley's attack, Lou Sorrentino flipped to Don DeBenedett for the Valley's first score of the season with forty-eight seconds remaining in the first period. The Valley scored once more in the first half as Sorrentino threw a twenty yard pass to Roy Kreiser from the twenty-three yard line and then booted the remaining yards for the score. A forty-two yard pass from Sorrentino to Frank Ritrievi scored the third touchdown for Valley in the third period. Despite the fact that the Cadets came to life in the final stanza, the score stood Lebanon Valley 19, Penn Military 7.

The following week the Dutchmen played host to the Vikings from Upsala and whipped them in a close, hard fought game 13-7, a score not guaranteed until the final minutes of the game. Lebanon Valley scored first with a Sorrentino pass to Dick Musselman; and in the final period Frank Rogers electrified the crowd by sprinting up the field for the goal to tie the game. However, the Valley rose up and with only forty-four seconds left to play, completed a sixty-five yard drive with a Sorrentino pass to Retrievi for the winning touchdown.

The Dutchmen then took the winning streak up to Moravian College where they triumphed 20-7. The only scoring done in the first half was by the Greyhounds as they completely blocked Valley's attack. However, in the second half, the Greyhound line began to crumble and the Dutchmen drove for three touchdowns from DeBenedett, Sorrentino, and the final one as Giordano plunged through the line.

Taking their three game winning streak down to Gettysburg, Lebanon Valley experienced their most heartbreaking game of the season. Leading at halftime by an overwhelming score of $25-0$, the Dutchmen succumbed to the Bullets' superior manpower in the second half and lost $35-25$. The Dutchmen capitalized on three Gettysburg fumbles in the opening minutes of the game and scored on each. In the second half, however, a pass intercepted by the Bullets opened the flood gates. After that Gettysburg was unstoppable. Making the most of the two blocked kicks and ripping the exhausted Dutchmen, the Bullets pulled the game out of the fire by scoring a touchdown practically each time they had the offensive.

The next week Lebanon Valley lost a close game to their arch-rival Albright by a score of $2 \mathrm{l}-19$. The stirring comeback of the last quarter fell short by the victory margin of two points. Touchdowns by Tony D'Apolito and Bruce Eickhoff made the score 14.0 at the half. A pass from Sorrentino to DeBenedett which was deflected into Ritrievi's hands set the score at 14-6; but Albright matched it immediately. In the last quarter Sorrentino took to the air and passed to Ralph Giordano and Dick Musselman for a touchdown which put the Dutchmen back in the game. However, time ran out before Valley could execute another drive.

Two heartbreaking defeats in a row seemed to have affected the Dutchmen as they traveled to Western Maryland to absorb a $26-0$ beating. The Dutchmen could do nothing that day and the Green Terrors romped all over them. The Western Maryland defense held the Valley attack to eighteen yards in the air and the goal line was never threatened during the long afternoon.

In the final game of the season, Valley played in the mud and rain, but won their fourth game of the season over Juniata 13-6. The game was made notable by a sixty-nine yard touchdown run by Don DeBenedett. Sorrentino had thrown a touchdown pass to Musselman for the other score.

In retrospect, one can say that although they won but four out of seven, the Dutchmen never lost their fighting spirit or sportsmanship. Next year, with the abolition of the two-platoon system, Valley ought to have a better chance.

Basketball

Coach Betty Jane Bowman in the 1952-1953 season had the advantage of having approximately twenty girls from which to choose her basketball team. Her decisions were wise ones for the team for although they did not win the majority of the games, they showed good ball handling and exceptional teamwork.
Janet Straw, captain of the team and spark on any basketball court with an average of 17.7 points per game, will really be missed as one of the big six next year. Evelyn Eby, rugged and fast forward, will enjoy her senior year in her left forward role. Irene Urian, clear-headed and capable right forward, showed her outstanding athletic ability in this, her freshmen year. In the varsity guard positions Shirley Schaeffer, Rosie Hollinger, and Mary Lou Young held up the other end of the court under rough, aggressive situations with outstanding ability and determination.
There is much that can be said about a team in its embryonic stage, its trials and tribulations, its strong and weak moments. Omitting details, a prediction will have to fill the bill -let's foresee a team that will come through with successful seasons in the very near future.

Whether it is a disadvantage or advantage to have an altogether new team and coach to work with and build will be a question that should be answered in the 1953 season. The past season has been one of new fundamentals and acquaintances with the game of hockey and with the team that plays the fast, exciting "game of finesse," as the coach, Miss Betty Bowman, tells the group.
The team itself-how else can it be described than "a great bunch of girls, which the right attitude, determination, and coaching can turn into a strong, smooth field hockey team."
Rosie Hollinger, veteran left-wing who can be counted on to send the ball into the center at the right moment, will be back for the ' 53 season to enjoy her last year on the college field. Evelyn Eby, strong, capable right halfback, is what the team needs for confidence in the tight defensive play. Gail Edgar, this year's captain and center half, is looking forward to the new season, determined to be part of a good ball team in her last year at Valley.
The sophomore members of the team are Mary Lou Young, left fullback and one of the best potentials the team has; Lois Reedy, who with a tremendous, accurate hit fills the right wing spot to the " T "; Lynnette Wall, center half who with more experience will direct that ball into the cage every time.
Unusual as it may seem, the freshmen equal the upperclassmen on the team. The Frosh have Audrey DaCosta at left inner, the girl with the most avid determination of the entire team; Shirley Heizman at right inner, a little girl with amazing endurance and sparkle on the field; Irene Urian at left half-back, the confident member of the team who displays terrific stick work and experience, carry-overs from her high school hockey career; Pat Greenjack at right fullback, the defensive player who can stop that ball and send it back toward home goal; and Emily Clements in the goalee cage, the pride and joy of the team who received honorable mention in the try-outs for the 1952 Mid-East Team. Next year she'll make that team! Sandra Nelson, Ruthann Kelchner,
